World Report on Road Traffic Injury Prevention M. M. Peden,World Health Organization,2004-03-23 Every day, thousands of people are killed and injured on roads around the world, with the costs of this growing, but largely preventable, public health concern disproportionately affecting vulnerable social groups and developing countries. In order to address these issues, the World Health Organization and the World Bank have produced this joint report on road traffic injury prevention, based on the collaborative contributions of experts and institutions, from all continents and different sectors, including transport, engineering, health, police, education and civil society. It presents a comprehensive overview of the magnitude, risk factors and impact of road traffic injuries, and about ways to prevent and lessen the impact of road crashes.

A Guide to the Driving Test ,2007 This booklet is a general guide about what is in the test, not a book of road rules. For more detailed information on road rules refer to the Road Users' Handbook or the Australian Road Rules.--P. 1.

Criminal Trial Delays in Australia Jason Payne,2007-01-01 This research examines the reasons for which criminal trials in Australia fail to proceed on the day of listing. The rationale of such an inquiry is that matters that fail to proceed as scheduled contribute to backlog and delay, both of which consume significant criminal justice resources. Moreover, delay in the criminal trial system may result in adverse effects, not the least of which is the anguish endured by the victims of crime and their families, and the community demanding protection from criminal offenders. This research used quantitative data from courts across a number of Australian states and territories to demonstrate that more than half of all listed criminal trials fail to commence on the listed day. After an analysis of data about trials and extensive interviews with court administrators, it is found that those trials that do not proceed can be placed into two categories: those trials that are finalised on or near the trial date either by way of late guilty plea or late withdrawal by the prosecution, and those trials that are adjourned and re-listed. While some delays will be inevitable, the report builds on recommendations made by a working group of the Standing Committee of Attorneys-General to suggest ways of reducing the backlog of criminal trials across Australia.

Uses and Abuses of Crime Statistics Don Weatherburn,2011

Raised on the Registry Nicole Pittman,Alison Parker,2013 This report details the harm public registration laws cause for youth sex offenders. The laws, which can apply for decades or even a lifetime and are layered on top of time in prison or juvenile detention, require placing offenders' personal information on online registries, often making them targets for harassment, humiliation, and even violence. The laws also severely restrict where, and with whom, youth sex offenders may live, work, attend school, or even spend time.

Every Sentence Tells a Story - Report on Sentencing of Child Sexual Assault Offenders New South Wales Parliament Joint Select Committee on Sentencing of Child Sexual Assault Offenders,Troy Grant,2014-10-14 This Committee was appointed to investigate whether current sentencing options for perpetrators of child sexual assault in New South Wales remain effective, and whether greater consistency in sentencing and improving public confidence in the judicial system could be achieved through alternative sentencing options, such as minimum mandatory sentencing and anti-androgenic medication. This report presents the findings and recommendations of the Committee. It discusses the current legislative framework, principles of sentencing, current sentencing patterns, reform options, treatment and management options, and the experiences of other jurisdictions.

E-policing ,2001 This research report analyses the impact of information technology on policing, using the QPS as a case study. It examines the extent to which the implementation of information technology has modified the accountability structure and the occupational culture of policing and whether information technology has significantly altered police practices at the street, supervisory and management levels.
